KING OF SWEDEN PASSES BEYOND

CAREER OF VENERABLE MONARCH IS ENDED.

COUNTRY BOWED WITH GRIEF

SOVEREIGN WAS LOVED BY ALL HIS SUBJECTS

MOST DEMOCRATIC OF KINGS

Never Made Any Attempt to Conceal the Humble Origin of His Family—Succession to Throne Passes to Oscar Gustave Adolphe.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 8.—Oscar II, king of Sweden, died at 9.15 this morning. The death of the venerable monarch occurred in the royal apartments of the palace where surrounded by the members of his family including the aged queen Sophia and the crown prince Oscar Gustave and high ministers of state the inevitable end had been awaited while outside the palace grounds crowds stood with bowed heads and tearful eyes long after the announcement came of the death of their well-loved sovereign.

The whole country is bowed with grief for king Oscar was something more than a ruler of his people and had endeared himself to them as an intimate and personal friend. When the flag on the palace was dipped to half mast there was a moan of anguish from the assembled multitude and many of them cried "our dear old king is dead."

[illegible] the king [illegible] the end the king continued [illegible] the sight of the light and [illegible] of the royal apartments were marked. His majesty passed [illegible] away [illegible].

Death Certificate

The death certificate was worded as follow

We [illegible] that his majesty King Oscar II passed peacefully [illegible] this morning in the castle at Stockholm at the age of [illegible] years months 2 days as the result of infection of the [illegible] and cardiac [illegible] vessels.

PLENSBURG

The succession to the throne of Sweden now passes to Oscar Gustave Adolphe duke of Vestrud the eldest son of the late king.

At a meeting of the council of state this afternoon the new king took the oath of allegiance under the title of Gustave V and adopted the motto "With the People for the Fatherland." The princess then took the oath of allegiance and the new monarch accepted homage of the state officials.

Unconscious to the Last

The last hours of the expiring monarch were passed in unconsciousness and up to the end he gave no sign of recognizing those about him. The queen was grief stricken because he could not bid her farewell. All through yesterday the king had remained in a comatose condition. At times there were faint signs of consciousness perceptible and the attending physicians thought some temporary relief to the sufferer. But their administrations were without avail and they hold out no hope last night beyond a promise to keep the spark of life burning for yet a few hours.

Believing that death would not occur until morning the members of the royal family and the cabinet ministers withdrew and the physicians left their patient in the hands of the nurses soon after midnight. Within an hour or two the doctors were called again to the sick room and administered further stimulants but at 5:15 the general opinion of the king's court were aroused by a message to [illegible] to [illegible] a crisis in the royal chamber. The premier and foreign minister and the highest court officials together with all the members of the king's family assembled there and remained at his side until the end came.

His Birthday Anticipated.

The birth of King Oscar is not expected to be followed by any serious disturbances of Sweden's political [illegible]. The venerable monarch [illegible] slowly failing for [illegible] months and last January [illegible] illness that at the time was considered to end fatally. All practical power has been taken from the king [illegible] power of power to the hands of his eldest son and successor Oscar Gustave Adolphe duke of Vestrud who will [illegible] title of King Oscar.

King Oscar has long been one of the most interesting figures in European society, his descent from Napoleon's great field marshal Bernadotte, his family station and his family connections with many of the other great houses of Europe combining to lend an interesting personality. His kindly democratic habits have made him idolized by his subjects, who have regarded him more as a father than a sovereign. It was King Oscar's devotion to the [illegible] that attracted the attention of both the [illegible] Great Britain when [illegible] were framing the Olympian [illegible] general [illegible] of arbitration [illegible] public [illegible] difficulties [illegible] to go.

Pained at Separation of Norway

[illegible] King [illegible] Sweden [illegible] would [illegible] pass [illegible] grieve [illegible] heart [illegible] broaching [illegible] happy [illegible] doubtless [illegible] Death [illegible] to [illegible] diagnosis that his heart [illegible] suffered [illegible] years [illegible] the [illegible] broken heart.

Politically [illegible] Sweden [illegible] Norway is likely to be disturbed by King Oscar [illegible] the [illegible] sentiment between them has been [illegible] and [illegible] has now adjusted itself to the [illegible] order of affairs. In one [illegible] the change [illegible] some state banks, indicates reserves of nearly 25 per cent. About the same proportion is reported from New Orleans and still higher reserves at smaller places, where the law requires 15 per cent, including deposits in reserve cities. The fact that two failures of national banks of a certain degree of importance have occurred during the week without apparently causing any shock of confidence, even in their own localities, and still less in the financial centers, is regarded here as another favorable indication of the state of the financial markets.

Money Crisis Is Over.

The incidence of $671,000 in actual cash to the New York clearing house banks is regarded here as another of the indications that the currency crisis as such is markedly over. The inflection of loans by about $11,000,000 is also considered a favorable indication of diminishing pressure. The increase in the Montreal reserve by $6,179,000 reduces the deficit in New York reserves to $46,210,600, and part of this will be covered by gold yet to arrive.

Not much is expected among New York bankers in the way of currency legislation by Congress at the present session.

The fact that the Democratic convention is approaching and that there is wide diversity of view as to the proper form of law legislation leads to the belief that the subject will be only considered without final action during the present session. The necessity of some important measures of reform is quite generally recognized, but the growth of sentiment for a strong central bank is checking in some degree the movement for giving wider powers of note issue to the existing national banks. Some bankers declare that the two measures are not incompatible and that if a moderate power of issue in emergency was given to existing banks in the present Congress this need not interfere with the creation of a strong central bank as soon as the subject has been thoroughly considered by the people.

The committee appointed by Governor Hughes to improve the banking system of the state of New York has issued a report which will be submitted to the legislature. The report recommends some important changes. A very considerable increase in trust company reserves will undoubtedly be recommended. It is also decided to bring the trust companies into some form of affiliation with the clearing house.

IMMIGRATION IS ON THE INCREASE

included with the prohibitions of the general immigration laws as free to come and go as the citizens or subjects of any other nation.

As the laws are framed, however, it would appear that the purpose was legally to exclude persons of the Chinese race in general and to admit only such persons of the race as fall within certain expressly stated exemptions as if, in other words, exclusion was the rule and admission the exception. I regard this feature of the present laws as unnecessary and fraught with irritating consequences. In the administration of laws so framed, notwithstanding the care taken to treat persons of the Chinese race [illegible] and consideration shown to other foreigners, it is impossible that persons who have to endure requirements and formalities peculiar to themselves should fail to take offense and to resent as a humiliation the manner in which by law they are distinguished from natives of other countries. Laws so framed can only be regarded as involving a discrimination on account of race, and it is needless to point out that discriminations on account of race, color, previous condition in religion are alike opposed to the principles of the republic and to the spirit of its institutions.

It is not surprising, therefore, that both the Chinese government and the Chinese people should feel aggrieved, and should in various ways manifest their resentment and displeasure.

Friendly Relations.

The relations between China and the United States have always been most friendly. It is not only the right but the duty of this government, for its own protection and for the security and welfare of the citizens, to exclude foreigners from its territory whenever the public interests require, but to so exclude that right as needlessly to offend the susceptibilities of a friendly nation, or unnecessarily to humiliate a whole people when only a particular class is to be excluded, can not be the action intended and should be guarded against in every possible way. A change in the established bodies of existing Chinese laborers of every description, both skilled and unskilled, is not even suggested. This policy has been and will continue to be as expeditiously enforced as circumstances will permit. At a time when the policy of exclusion was first seriously agitated in the United States only about 5,000 Chinese, or less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of the total population, little danger need be apprehended from a full and fair reconsideration of the whole subject and a recasting of the laws upon a juster basis. During the past fiscal year only 87 Chinese persons were lawfully admitted to the United States, of the balance of those admitted, 13 of whom were alien [illegible] were merchants, 2 were students, 32 were officials, and only 35 were laborers.

Naturalization.

During the past months of the fiscal year in which the act of June 29, 1906, has been in operation the division of naturalization has been charged with the duty of supervising the work of the courts upon which jurisdiction was conferred by that law, supplied with the blank forms of declarations, petitions and certificates, and generally supervising the [illegible] throughout the country. By some means a set of forms in conformity to the requirements of the law, and in the substance and form of the various papers used by the courts as evidence of each of the successive steps in the process of naturalization has been secured and can be maintained.

The whole [illegible] is a result of features of a complete and effective administration, the organization of a force of examiners, whose duty it is and must be to investigate the statements made in the petitions, as well as to ascertain the competency and credibility of the witnesses.

Corporation Problems.

Corporate activity has become national in its commercial scope, but its legal status is still determined almost wholly by state statutes, a circumstance that favors the evasion of many existing evils. The legal conditions should at least be brought into some reasonable relation to the business facts. Corporate commerce is carried on [illegible] by companies whose operations substantially constitute the whole problem before us, as railroads. The control over them, to some extent at least, should also be national, by the general government. The powers and jurisdiction of the regulative authority should be commensurate with the field of operations of the corporations to be regulated. Centralization as a business fact has been accomplished. It only remains to be determined whether legal conditions shall be adjusted to the facts which they are supposed to cover.

Nor is there any good reason why federal supervision should recognize from proper state power. Such a system merely implies that the federal government would attend to those national affairs of interstate commerce clearly intrusted to it by the constitution, affairs in which, by the very nature of the subject matter, the states are to a great extent powerless, and their action largely conflicting and vexatory. Only on federal control can give uniformity of action and effectual publicity.

Investigation of Woman and Child Labor.

The investigation into the condition of woman and child wage-earners, recently authorized and directed by Congress, which has been placed by the under the charge of the commissioner of labor, is one of the most important investigations that have been undertaken by that bureau, and one from which it is fair to assume that efforts will flow beneficial alike to woman and child wage-earners and to the community as a whole. If, under the present circumstances of the employment of women and children there is avoidable waste of efficiency, health, or life, or of the means of good well-being of these workers, such conditions should be corrected in the interest alike of the individual sufferer and of the body social.

This investigation goes into a field of inquiry beset with many difficulties, and the plan for the work aims to secure results both comprehensive and convincing. The [illegible] equipped months the staff of the bureau have given months to the careful study of the subject, that the work in now fully under way and will engage the time of between 60 and 200 workers during the whole of the fiscal year 1908.

Increase in Imports and Exports.

The bureau of statistics who has [illegible] the foreign commerce of the United States and such features of the internal commerce as are available in statistical form, reports both the foreign and domestic commerce as greater in 1907 than in any preceding year. The most strongly marked characteristic of the year's commerce is an increase in imports, which grew from $1,226,562,418 in 1896 to $1,434,421,125 in 1907, while the exports of domestic merchandise grew from $1,217,853,894 in 1896 to $1,882,870,681 in 1907. Both imports and exports [illegible] a larger total value in 1907 than in any earlier year.

The increase in importations occurred chiefly in materials for use in manufacturing and in manufactures. Foodstuffs in a crude condition, chiefly coffee, tea, and cacao, increased but $15,442,[illegible]; foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured, [illegible] principally of sugar, $[illegible]; crude materials for use in manufacturing, chiefly silk, cotton, hemp, jute, India rubber, and hides and skins, increased $82,[illegible]; manufactures for further use in manufacturing, chiefly tin, copper, lumber, and iron and steel in a partially manufactured state, increased $53,797,[illegible], while finished manufactures, chiefly silks, laces, dress goods, and [illegible] articles show an increase of $56,[illegible].

The increase in exports occurred largely in manufactures, materials and manufactures. Foodstuffs in a crude condition, chiefly grains, show a decrease of $8,868,[illegible], foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured, chiefly flour and meats, show a decrease of $[illegible], while crude materials for manufacturing, chiefly cotton, show an increase of $[illegible], manufactures for further use in manufacturing, including copper, leather, and the lower grades of iron and steel manufactures, an increase of $[illegible], and finished manufactures an increase of $[illegible].

Lakes of Internal Commerce.

Internal commerce records whether of movements of freights on the Great Lakes or of those entering the principal cities and upon the great railroad lines, indicate an increased activity in the internal as well as in the foreign commerce of the United States. The fact that most of the records of commercial movements, either by rail or water, relate to calendar rather than fiscal years renders impossible a detailed statement of the internal commerce of the present year, but in general terms it may be said that the records of freight movements thus far developed in 1907 indicate that the internal commerce of the United States in the current year will exceed that of any preceding year, and that this applies both to movements on the Great Lakes and on the principal railway lines of the country.

Trade With Noncontiguous Territories.

[illegible] of the United States with its noncontiguous territories shows a marked increase. The value of merchandise shipped to Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Guam, Tutuila, the Midway Islands, and Alaska in the fiscal year 1907 was $[illegible] against $[illegible] in 1906, and of merchandise brought from those territories $[illegible], against $[illegible] in the fiscal year 1906, while the value of gold of domestic production received from Alaska in the fiscal year 1907 was $[illegible], or more considerable the original cost of that territory.

KING OF SWEDEN PASSES BEYOND

[illegible] has also accelerate the relations between Sweden and Norway, as the king's son will now become crown prince, by virtue of marriage to the queen of Norway.

The new king [illegible] much resembles his father in gigantic stature and in light Saxon-blond features. The young monarch is not unused to the cares of state, as he has frequently acted as regent during the illness and absence [illegible] and has displayed good sense and ability.

Survivors of Late Ruler.

Oscar II, king of Sweden and [illegible] of Norway, was born January 21, 1829. He was the [illegible] son of King Oscar I and of Queen Josephine, daughter of Prince Eugene of Leuchtenberg, and grandson of Marshal Bernadotte, [illegible] succeeded to the throne at the death of his brother, King Charles XV, September 18, 1872. He was married June 6, 1857, to Queen Sophia, born July 9, 1836, daughter of the late Duke William of Nassau. Four children survive King Oscar—Crown Prince Gustaf, born June 16, 1858; Prince Oscar Bernadotte, born November 15, 1859; Prince Carl, born February 3, 1861, and Prince Eugene, born August 1, 1865. Prince Gustave was married September 20, 1881, to Princess Victoria of Baden (Baden). Their eldest son, Prince Gustave, was married June 15, 1905, to Princess Margaret Victoria of Connaught. Prince Oscar married Ingeborg, daughter of the late King Oscar and married March 15, 1888, Elsha Munck of Fulkila.

All event of interest and importance in the life of King Oscar was his arbitration of the Saxonian claims in [illegible] which he adjudged the American and British governments to be responsible for the fighting in the Samoan islands in 1899.

Ablest Most Democratic.

Both Oscar was called the ablest ruler of the Nineteenth century and the most democratic king that ever lived. He never made any attempt to conceal the humble origin of his family and whenever he traveled in the south of France he made it a point to visit the little house at Pau, where his grandfather was born.

In appearance, however, King Oscar was every inch a king, and there is no sovereign in all Europe who was more stately and more regal in bearing that was he. In height King Oscar stood 6 feet 2 inches, taller than most of his subjects, who as a rule are tall men. His eyes were blue in color, distinctive of his race, and were commanding but kindly.

The king was distinguished in philosophy, having received degrees from so many universities of Europe that he might fairly be called, so far as degrees indicate, the most learned man in Europe. He was an author, a translator, a learned man in political economy and the science of government, a musician, a historian and playwright. All the great masterpieces of literature, historical, philosophical and religious, he translated into Swedish. One of his novels, the one which has become the most widely known of his works of fiction, deals with the life of his own family, of Bernadotte and the accession to the throne of Sweden of his grandfather, Marshal Bernadotte.

Brave Man and Scholar.

With all his accomplishments as a scholar, King Oscar was a brave man and wore upon his breast on state occasions a medal bestowed on him by the French government as a reward for his heroic deeds performed when he was a young man.

Gustave, the new ruler of Sweden, was born in the castle of Drottingholm. Immediately after his birth he was made Duke of Verland. He pursued his studies, from 1877 to 1878 at Upsala. In 1879 he traveled abroad, visiting almost all the countries of Europe. In 1878 he returned a second time to the university at Upsala. He entered the army in 1885 and in 1892 he was given the rank of general lieutenant. In 1896 he served as inspector of the military schools, and in 1889 he was made a full general. Between the years 1884 and 1893 Gustave filled the office of vice king of Norway.

BANKER ARRESTED

stocks of their own companies. They seem to have very few bonds on which they have loaned money. I found in my investigations they had $875,000 of Western Pacific railroad stocks. I have been advised that within three hours before they closed they accepted a deposit of $80,000 from a certain construction company, and that within half an hour before the closing they accepted a deposit of $[illegible].

"As far as I am able to figure out the bank affairs, it has loaned $5,[illegible] on stocks which have some value, but are not easily convertible at this time. What these stocks may realize eventually in cash, I do not profess to say. The bank has also about $5,000,000 of bills receivable, much of which was good collateral. Many of these bills will be realized at par. The bank has about $9,000,000 of savings and commercial deposits.

Worth of Stocks Unknown.

"I can not predict how much of its various stocks and bills receivable can be realized at par, but it seems to me that in the process of liquidation the bank can realize a good deal of money and that the depositors can get a substantial return."

David E. Walker, president of the bank, has tendered his resignation. On behalf of Mr. Walker, the statement is made that he knew nothing of the bank's condition and accepted it of an honorary position.

The depositors of the bank are for the most part professional men and laboring people.

The bank was a depository of the Western Pacific railroad, which, it is said, had a balance in the bank of $250,000 when it closed. An Ogden [illegible] is said to be a creditor for $250,000.

What the Press Agents Say—

"CHECKERS" AT THE OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

It is quite as pleasant to note the return to town of a clever interesting play, as to tell of its coming for the first time. Such a play as "Checkers" which will be the attraction at the Opera House this evening. The company, under the same management, is composed largely of the best members of last year's organization. Miss Reed will play the title role and he announces that so long as the playgoers show their liking for him in the part he will continue to play it. And the same statement holds good regarding Dave Braham, who has played continuously the most cleverly drawn character of a race track tout named "Push" Miller, since the first performance of "Checkers" five years ago.

Among the others of the old members of this play are Lydia Dickson, a Denver girl, as Cynthy, the exceptionally funny housemaid, and with her Pauline Eberhard will be seen in Aunt Deb. Then there are Joe Wilkes as the crusty banker and Robert Craig as the intensely funny Rube. Bud Brecken ridge.

Among the new members of the "Checkers" company is Miss Stephanie Longfellow. It is impossible to mention her without remarking that she is the grand niece of the lovable Longfellow, who, during his long life, stood among the head of American poets. This will be Miss Longfellow's first appearance as a leading woman. Since she has been her first entrance on the stage as a member of Augustin Daly's musical comedy, "A Runaway Girl," she has played many characters, but always with her laughing eyes and heart on the part of some gentle, natured ingenue. And in the part of Pert it is thought she has found her quest.

The story of "Checkers" has been told and acted so often it is needless to set it forth again. It has many times been tersely termed "a slice of life." It has a natural, dainty love story and as strong and vivid a racing act as was ever put upon the stage; an act so real that the late Hon. William C. Whitney, at the close of the first performance in New York, said: "Checkers' is the finest racing play I have ever seen."

THE BLUE MOON.

James T. Powers and his big musical company will be the next attraction at the Opera House Friday evening. This musical comedy has been running in England for two solid years and its Americanized version has been wonderfully successful all this season here in the States. The company is large and particularly clever, both from the singing and dancing standpoint, and the music will be heard to its best advantage through the medium of a greatly enlarged orchestra. Every effort has been made to have this engagement to be the peer of any previous attraction that will visit here this season, and, taken all together, all of the many advance promises made regarding "The Blue Moon" may be expected to be realized.

The story of the play concerns the happenings of a British regiment stationed in Central India, and the endeavors of several of the members of this organization to find a little English girl who has been kidnaped many years before. This is the principal theme of the play, and, strangely enough, Mr. Powers' part, which, by the way, is the first he has ever played during his entire career, is the main portion of what might be termed a secondary story for his actions during the entire play concern his endeavors to ingratiate himself into the good graces of a young lady who, as many of our readers will no doubt remember, is a well-known and

BECIN BASKETBALL AGITATION

Movement Started for Interscholastic League—Terrors Will Not Enter Team This Year.

Agitation has been started for the formation of an interscholastic basketball league, to be divided into two divisions of six teams each. In the southern division it is planned to include teams from the Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Salida, Canon City, Cripple Creek and Leadville high schools, while in the northern division will be the four Denver schools, Longmont and the Boulder Preps.

Colorado Springs High school, however, has practically decided not to place a basketball team in the field this winter. A meeting of the athletic board will be held within a short time to consider the matter, but there is little enthusiasm over the sport, and it is not probable that there will be favorable action.

Whether or not Cutler Academy will have a basketball team this winter and place it in the interscholastic league, if formed, has not been decided. There is some good material in the academy, and as it usually does put out a strong five it is not improbable that it will represent Colorado Springs.

THE BIG FLEET.

TODAY it is expected, all the vessels which are to take part in the practice cruise of the Navy around the Horn and into the Pacific, will be assembled in Hampton Roads. The date of departure is a week ahead, but during that week the ships will be together. For many weeks the navy yards have been working overtime to get the big fellows ready. Now they are together, and it is a noteworthy occasion.

Sixteen battleships, five cruisers and half a dozen other boats are to comprise the entire fleet. The whole is under the command of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans. Four squadrons of four battleships each are in command of four Rear-Admirals and the auxiliaries are in command of officers of the propel rank. It is the largest and most powerful fleet ever assembled under the stars and stripes and the voyage it is going on is one of the most remarkable ever undertaken. The vessels have their full complement of men and their full equipment of arms and ammunition. In these respects they are moving just as if there were a war on and they were going to meet an enemy. The cruise is undertaken on the theory that the best way to find out just how to do a thing is to do it. During the Spanish war the Oregon demonstrated how one vessel could come from one ocean to the other, and be in perfect condition to go into action after the long voyage. Now we are going to see whether a whole fleet can do the same thing. If they succeed then we will know what can be done in case it should prove that they do not make a perfect success we shall know where the shortcomings are and be better able to guard against them in case of necessity.

REASONS FOR THE CRUISE

There has been a great deal of speculation as to the real motives that underlay the order for this cruise. It has been in the country and in Europe. Its conception came at a time when relations with Japan seemed to be somewhat strained and some observers rushed to the conclusion that this was to be a demonstration primarily for the benefit of that country. Every effort on both sides of the ocean was made to get at an inferior motive. We believe however that those attempts have been unsuccessful. Even the New York Sun which at one time announced positively that the purpose of the voyage was to provoke a war with Japan has publicly retracted the assertion and it is generally understood now, we think that the purpose is simply that which has been announced. It is simply a recognition that this country fronts on two oceans and there is just as much reason why the big fleet should be part of the time in the Pacific as that it should be part of the time in the Atlantic. The President has said in his speeches and in his message that he hopes that in the future the fleet will spend part of its time in each ocean and on the face of it there is no good reason why this should not be so.

Barring extraordinary hurricane the only place where it is likely to be any great danger is in the passage of the Straits of Magellan after the fleet leaves Punta Arenas. Those two days will be days of anxiety but the chances are in favor of a safe passage. The time of the year has been carefully selected so that the fleet will reach that point in midsummer, when the danger is least. With the careful provision that has been made there is good reason to expect that the fleet will reach our own western coast on time and in good condition.

The waterways convention that has just closed in Washington had the courage of its convictions. It asked Congress to appropriate fifty millions for the development of our system of internal communication by water. Just now it has a better chance of being attended to than it might have had before. The President has been interested in the matter, and his public speeches have aroused public attention to the necessity of such internal improvements. The railways are proving inadequate to the transportation of our enormous inland traffic, and the chances seem to be that they will be inadequate for a long time to come and that, by alternative to partial stagnation is the use of water transportation. The convention will in working its big project, will have done a good deal if only by drawing attention more fully to the final need, and pointing out how it can be met. Such development as they hope for is, of course, only a question of time—the question of duty ought to be a secondary consideration.

A good deal of attention is being paid just now to Mr. Hay's letter of resignation as police matron, and the immense sums they are supposed to make out of the properties they administer. Not long ago there was a case of the kind in this state that attracted much attention. The salary element seems to be any good reason for the transfer of a public honor, especially if a man should be able to make four or five thousand dollars out of it on the receipts of a position that pays but $50 a month. There seems to be a good deal of room for improvement in the system of paying public officials.

FROM OTHER PENS

MERE HEARSAY

From the Topeka State Journal

MAKE MONEY FREE

From the Rochester Herald

Senator Elkins of West Virginia is trying to put through an amendment to put coal on the free list, and Brother Simon Guggenheim wants to buy the output of the Alaska mines. Next!

HOW LONG WILL IT LAST

From the Omaha Bee

The one question that is in the minds of millions of people who are taking the bulk of their business profits to the public institutions is the existing panic. The panic is unjustified to the extreme in that it has been accentuated beyond the bare necessities and demands of the situation. Shortage of the consumable commodities is in excess of the facilities of supply and with the people generally and the public and government officials the financiers and the statesmen and experts on political economy have offered explanations and suggested expedients that have had little or no effect. The depression but the majority of the people have had little or nothing of the things of finance to do and understand why the depression should exist. They are anxious to know when it may be expected to end.

FORAKER BURNS HIS BRIDGES

From the Atlanta Constitution

Senator Joseph Benson Foraker has made a more valiant than discretion in burning the bridges of his political bridges and evening it unequivocally to the Republican President's policies.

It is difficult to see the slogging upon which the senator has entered. It is true that the Republican party is badly divided as between allegiance to candidates, but there is no indication that it has personally lost its grip on the rank and file of the party—excepting Mr. Roosevelt is entirely out of the race. But the rank and file has shown no predisposition toward the senator from Ohio of the active efforts disgruntled negro organizations here and there have exerted.

Foraker is essentially no partisan and seemingly no vision to appeal to voters in the presidential. He has mistread public sentiment when he is carrying on purely destructive criticism of negative statesmanship as qualifications for presidential honors.

The senator is a good fighter and capable legislator. But he is out of the fight and will be a lame duck presidential candidate at best.

A DERELICT AIRSHIP

From the Boston Transcript

Once more France has trumped the world. A nation which can produce an airship capable of breaking away for a journey of seven hours is certainly open to congratulations. For weeks the Patrie has been associating with the towers of spires of the French capital until quite a chummy feeling had sprung up in the hearts of the Parisians. Then while she was being held down to earth by some two hundred soldiers during repairs to her motor a sudden gale arose and broke away, shot up into the air and for the last two days a derelict airship has been running amuck in the skies of Europe. Some say she carried away three men, others that she was empty and will rise to a rarefied atmosphere and there explode. Meantime there is nothing for Europe to do but stand out in its backyard keeping watch and give the alarm if the Patrie comes crashing down on the premises. Unless this is a piece of sheer bravado on the part of the French the aeronauts of other nations are asked for respectful bows. Hitherto the difficulty has been to hold an airship down but to keep it up. Does it seem uncharitable to accuse these daring and astute Bellerophons of pre-arranging this disaster? To be the first to lose an airship on account of too great buoyancy is worth some trouble and expense. Or an airship with independent notions of where it wishes to go might induce skeptical governments to stop and think twice, especially when they realize the chance that it may come down in its official skylight. At any rate the thing has happened and the merit of originality abides with the French.

THE SAVINGS THAT GO ABROAD

From the Chicago Record Herald

Postmaster General Meyer in his annual report gives figures of the funds that the postoffice money order department transmits to foreign countries each year. They reached the enormous total of $72,-[illegible] in the last fiscal year.

Most of the money consists of the savings of immigrants, which they send to their relatives in the old countries or which they send there for their own use when they return. Almost $18,000,000 went to Italy alone and almost all of this was probably immigrants savings. The same is true of $15,400,000 sent to Austria and $7,250,000 sent to Russia and of most of the remaining remittances.

Mr. Meyer believes that if we had a government savings bank established by the postoffice department, not only would the immigrants keep their funds in it while accumulating the amounts they wish to remit, but, moreover, large parts of the money would be left there permanently instead of being placed on deposit abroad. Immigrants send some money abroad through the commercial banks, and probably the amount sent that way is more than enough to offset postal remittances for other purposes than this. The total postal remittances probably fall short of immigrants remittances, and nevertheless they approximate in value the entire amount of gold that has been imported from abroad for the last [illegible] months in the last month.

The question of a reasonable, temporary postal bank for this country is a most excellent reason for the establishment of a postal savings bank.

And it is not the only reason by many good reasons.

WAKING IN THE RAIN

From the New York Globe

One critic condemns the President a part of whose the performances of a self pampering autocrat — [illegible] work in Texas has been of marching rains, many storm impossible morning and the like when he should be attending to state duties in cottonwood suits and steamboated council chambers. Another objects to these expeditions on the ground that they unduly exalt the legs over the brain.

[illegible] the man who trained the horse, the pig and elephant, their legs not his and the wheels of our inanimate machines of burden are the economical means of transport and his savages should now depend on their own legs. Human legs could be entirely dispensed with in this view—shrivel up and waste away like any other useless relic of a past era—and the intellectual advancement of the race if not promoted at least be in no wise hindered.

The worst feature of these excursions is, it seems to us, overlooked by the critics namely their disastrous effects. The execution cabinet composed of men whose sense of duty has [illegible] upon [illegible] deserves some consideration. The use of the [illegible] peninsula diphtheria or otherwise smitten by the life [illegible] unmoved to waxing antiquity also has obligations to their family and kin. Should they be marred by [illegible] in chilling rain. They cannot stay at home gout or no gout with the others [illegible] follow. Such mollycoddlism would place at a grand disadvantage.

The mind walks therefore only upon the more sound and less robust members of the subcabinet portions hard-ships which [illegible] hanging, theft [illegible] and even lives, threaten the happiness and welfare of the families dependent upon them. It is no answer to say, 'They don't have to go unless they want to, there is no compulsion upon them.' As we have seen, [illegible] to take part dub the recreant a mollycoddle and [illegible] with the master at work of part of true greatness to erase these tests from the calendar of subcabinet sports and thus [illegible] requirement of being a good, muddy [illegible] necessary to [illegible] place close to the [illegible].

THE DEMOCRATIC DONKEY

From the Boston Transcript

Mr. Bryan's recent defeat [illegible] Democratic [illegible] as symbolizing the [illegible] of the party was sharply instructive. [illegible] has certain useful qualities and upon the perpetuation of [illegible] didst. [illegible] prevent emphasis [illegible] to ignore its absurdities. But it was [illegible] enough to satisfy the Democratic leaders [illegible]. They scorned of the brute they do are and would exchange for [illegible] almost anything [illegible] that the animal [illegible] could furnish [illegible] theatric purposes. Ex-Mayor Dunne would [illegible] thoughtlessly [illegible] Roger Sullivan [illegible] and all [illegible] sound [illegible] Nebraska Democrat [illegible] owl has an [illegible] look, and [illegible] wind may [illegible] it does not possess. ### ON TO HER JOB

From the Glenwood Springs Republican

THE ONE AND ONLY WAY.

From the Morgan County (Colo.) Republican

A miserable imposter is said to be travelling over the country selling a recipe for taking off warts when everybody knows the one way to take off a wart is to rub it with a potato which is afterward to be buried by a nigger in the northeast corner of a graveyard at midnight in the dark of the moon. As the potato decays the wart will disappear.

WELCOME TO THE PAPERS.

From the Clinton (Mo.) Eye

Miss Retta Roe was a pleasant Eye visitor Tuesday, having the date on her mother's paper, Mrs. Allie Roe's, marked up a year. Mrs Roe lives at 216 Gravel street and can accommodate a few more boarders. Miss Retta will teach the Harrwell school and will commence next Monday. She is one of our best teachers and a very popular young lady.

J. H. McQueen had the Eye mailed to his home for a year to please his wife, which pleased us, and we will always feel kindly to Mrs. McQueen for her favor. Mr. McQueen thinks lots of the corn will be bending by a frost, as the ruins keep it growing so it did not ripen as usual. He has been feeding a kind of clan mashes every other day for three weeks for Mr. Guyer.

SING HO! FOR THE MOUNTAIN HOLLY

It's time to pack the knapsack
And be for the mountain hollies
Come out to the hills and forget your ills,
Rejoice and be glad and be jolly!
Sing ho! for the mountain holly!

It grows wild thick green Kinnikinick
In the hills neath the pungent pines,
Where the golden-rod and the asters nod
In the breeze to the browning vines.

Come out with a cheer, young autumn is here
White nights and a harvest moon
And crisp clear days of sun's rich rays
That are gone like the night—too soon.

Indulge in delights of your fancy's flights
Send grateful thoughts on high
For life and the wonderful works of God
Th earth the sun and the sky

RAW POINTS OF CITY GOVERNMENT

Merits and Defects of the Galveston and Des Moines Plans—Not Yet Fairly Tried

Students of municipal government recognized as one of the greatest problems confronting the American people will watch with much interest the practical development of the new plans at Galveston and Des Moines. The Galveston plan established in 1901 has been described in some detail in Municipal Engineering Magazine by Mayor Landis.

The city was in bad condition after the great storm of 1900 and the old form of government by mayor and council selected from the wards of the city did not meet the demands of the situation. Competent and public spirited men could not be induced in sufficient numbers to conduct the business of the city properly. Appeal to the legislature secured the passage of a charter vesting the government in a commission to consist of five members to be elected at large, who should appoint all the administrative officers of the city. The commissioners [illegible] all [illegible] upon the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Glenn Cheley, secretary of the boys' department, announces that a series of swimming races and diving contests will be held next Saturday. On Friday evening he is planning a taffy pull for the boys.

RETURNS STOLEN SILVERWARE

Former Alta Vista Hotel Waitress Becomes Converted and Sends Spoons Back From Coast.

Wrapped in an old envelope and bearing the address in unfamiliar handwriting, two silver teaspoons reached the Alta Vista hotel yesterday. This in itself was a bit strange, as hotel managers are not accustomed to receiving silverware in such manner even when it bears the marks of their own hotel, but it is the letter that accompanied the spoons that their identity was explained.

The spoons will be passed in the "conscience fund." They were sent from Los Angeles by Miss Flora Andrews, who was a waitress at the hotel last June. After working a few weeks she quit and went to the coast. With her she carried two of the spoons which belonged to the hotel. She kept them all this time, but a short while ago became converted, as she writes in the letter to Manager H. H. Stevens. After that, the two little teaspoons gave her a great deal of trouble. Her conscience was not easy, and so she decided that the only thing to do would be to return them. This she did, and now undoubtedly she can accept her new religion with a clear conscience.

CITY COUNCIL TO MEET.

Will Consider Appropriations at Special Session.

A special meeting of the city council will be held this evening for the purpose of taking up the matter of appropriations and preparing an ordinance which will have to be passed at least five days before the expiration of the present year. There are several matters in connection with the appropriation still unsettled, and the final apportionment of funds to the various departments of the city will have to be made. The question of increasing the pay of day laborers from $2 to $2.50 will be considered and some of the special appropriations that were included when the levy was made may be curtailed or left out altogether. A statement from City Auditor Perry giving the anticipated revenues and expenditures of the various departments will be presented, and to a large extent the final action on the appropriations will be based on this report.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought can be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood, thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the sore Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any substitute of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of its ingredients in plain English on its bottle wrapper, the same being attested as correct and true under oath. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

YOUNG GLOBE TROTTER

THREE-YEAR-OLD CHILD UNACCOMPANIED ON TRIP.

Passes Through Colorado Springs on Journey Half Way Around the Globe.

The youngest globe trotter who has ever favored Colorado Springs with a visit passed through the city yesterday en route to San Francisco. He comes all the way from Germany and his travels will take him half way around the globe. Plenty of cigared youngsters have come across the Atlantic and have [illegible] other ports to the home their parents have established inland, but Edward Baudenbistel of Baden has established a new record.

Edward is three years old, and he is on the way to San Francisco where his parents settled three years ago. At the time of their emigration, the boy, then a babe of only a few months, was left in charge of an aunt until such time as Herr Baudenbistel should be able to provide for the little chap.

Attracts Much Attention.

He arrived in this city in charge of the conductor on Rock Island train No. 5 from Chicago at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and was transferred to Denver and Rio Grande through train No. 1 for San Francisco, leaving here at 11:55 a. m. The little fellow attracted much attention at the Denver and Rio Grande depot when it became known that he was making a 6,000-mile trip alone. A face like a Pipe Puppin was framed with yellow curls and topped by a typical German cap. A double-breasted pea jacket was buttoned snuggly about his chunky body, and below were two sturdy legs.

It was more than a month ago that the aunt in Germany received a letter from Herr Baudenbistel telling her to come to San Francisco with the child and inclosing money to cover the expenses of the 6,000-mile trip. They sailed on the Blucher. The steamer had hardly left the German port when the aunt became so ill that it was thought best to leave the pair at their hours.

Three days later the aunt died. There was no one at Baden to care for Edward. So the hospital authorities at Cherbourg kept him until the Blucher on her next trip stopped there. The outcome was that the youngster, properly tagged, continued the trip with Captain Reessing, who had taken a great interest in the husky little fellow on the previous trip.

Edward went into the second cabin, but had his meals at the captain's table and spent much of his time on the bridge. He had the run of the ship and a stewardess acted as his nurse.

When the Blucher docked at Hoboken Sunday, December 1, the little globe trotter walked down the gangplank hand in hand with the captain, who took care of the boy until he had made arrangements for him to complete his trip to the Pacific coast in charge of successive railroad conductors.

CONCESSION TO MERCHANTS

Will Be Allowed to Display Their Holiday Goods on the Sidewalks.

Special permission has been given by the city police department to the merchants of this city to display their goods on the sidewalk from the eleventh of this month until the first of the year. This will afford welcome relief to many merchants whose stores are filled with holiday goods and crowded to the limit with customers.

MANY EXHIBITS ARRIVING

Annual Poultry Show Opens Tomorrow.

Exhibits for the eleventh annual poultry exhibition which will open at 118 North Tejon street tomorrow have already begun to arrive. Several from out of town were received yesterday, and because of the fact that they had to be well taken care of were immediately transferred from the express offices to the room.

All day today officers will be busily engaged in placing the various exhibits. They announce that all exhibits must be received at the hall by 6 o'clock this evening. The show will open its doors to the public tomorrow morning, and will remain open throughout the week, morning, afternoon and evening.

With all of the legal entries received and practically all of those from out of town, Secretary-Treasurer G. W. Nedits yesterday was enthusiastic over the prospects for a successful show. The quality of the birds, he declares, will be equal to that of any show ever held in this state. There are to be many exhibits of rare and exceptionally fine birds, and this will aid in making the exhibition one of the best in years.

COLORADO GIRL IN PLAY.

One of Them, Well Known Here, in "Blue Moon" Company.

When James T. Powers and his "Blue Moon" company play in Colorado Springs Friday night, many local people will recognize one of the leading women as a former Colorado girl. In the play she is known as Leslie Leigh, but her friends here know her as Miss Amelia Fuegel. She is a former Pueblo girl, whose father was a prominent smelter city mining man before his death a few years ago. She has a number of friends in Colorado Springs. When she first went on the stage she became a member of the chorus in "The Isle of Spice" company, in which last year she was the prima donna.

The Best Is Always Cheapest.

In buying medicine, a few pence from each bottle is no inducement to the buyer. He wants that which is most effective, as it is cheapest in the end. For sale by all druggists.

GOVERNOR LEADS THE FIGHT

Annual Campaign Against Wanton Destruction of Evergreen Trees at Christmas Time Is Started.

The annual campaign against the wanton destruction of evergreen trees at Christmas time has been started Governor Buchtel leading the fight in a proclamation just issued. He warns all those who are contemplating the cutting of needless numbers of trees that prosecution will follow in cases where the offenders are caught.

In past years, the number of trees that has been cut has been large, although it has been diminishing every year as a result of an awakening [illegible] officers. Locally, special [illegible] be made by the officers, and particularly the special forest and game wardens, to prevent any cutting of the trees.

Governor Buchtel's proclamation is as follows:

The wholesale destruction of evergreen trees at this most joyous season of the Christian year is a form of vandalism which is utterly out of harmony with the true spirit of the holiday festival. An evergreen tree on the mountain side is valuable to [illegible] people.

It has not only a value in the preservation of our water supply, but also in making the mountains attractive both for our own people and for tourists who are disposed to make [illegible] the playground of the nation.

Since it is the custom to cover Christmas trees with all sorts of fantastic decorations, it is quite possible to create a beautiful Christmas tree out of branches taken from [illegible] trees in the forest without actually destroying or harming the trees.

It is clearly my duty to prevent the destruction of trees on the state school land. It is, therefore,

Ordered, that all persons are prohibited from destroying or mutilating any trees on the state school land, which are held in trust by the state for the benefit of the boys and girls of the future. All patriotic people are most earnestly requested to report to me the names and addresses of trespassers on school lands in order that proper legal steps may be taken to prevent this form of vandalism.

Given under my hand and the executive seal this 7th day of December A. D. 1907. HENRY A. BUCHTEL, Governor.

TILLMAN TO MEET KID ROSE

Local Fighter Scheduled for Preliminary to the Carsey-Shocks Bout in Pueblo Thursday.

Young Tillman, the Colorado Springs boxer who recently appeared here in a series of matches with Kid McKage of Oklahoma, will figure as one of the principals in the preliminary to the Carsey-Shocks battle in Pueblo Thursday night. His opponent will be Kid Rose of La Junta, the straight arm fighter who has a reputation in the southern part of the state. Tillman put Kid Tyson to sleep in a preliminary to the first Pueblo battle while Tillman has made a favorable impression at Pueblo several times.

Carsey left Denver last night for Pueblo and will continue his hard work at the Bessemer city hall. He is already down to weight, but it is reported that Shocks is still having trouble making [illegible] pounds. The latter is working hard, and is being backed by many of the Pueblo fans who were favorably impressed with his spectacular performance in that city a month ago with Roxy Rosch. Carsey, however, has strong backing, having been under the watchful eye of E. W. Dickerson of Denver since his arrival in the state.

MAY GIVE UP CONTRACT

RUMOR SAYS EL PASO CO. IS READY TO QUIT.

Carlton and Trevarrow May Bore Deep Tunnel—President Bernard Talks.

According to persistent rumors in mining circles in Cripple Creek and the city the directors of the El Paso Gold Mining company may decide to give up the company's contract for the boring of the Roosevelt Deep Drainage tunnel owing to the hardness of the rock. The present contract calls for the minimum 250 feet a month. The meeting of the directors which was set for this afternoon will be postponed until tomorrow afternoon owing to the absence of some of the directors who will not be able to get to the city before that time.

"I do not wish to make any predictions as to what the directors may do in regard to the tunnel contract," said President S. S. Bernard last night. "The rock has been extremely hard and we have never been able to make the required 250 feet in any one month since we took hold. As far as the protest of J. F. Burns is concerned it will have no bearing on the case, and I do not think it will even be discussed at the meeting."

A report from Cripple Creek is to the effect that Carlton and Trevarrow of that city, who made an unsuccessful bid for the contract on the basis of 300 feet of work a month, are anxious to take over the contract if the El Paso company abandons the work and are confident of their ability to drive the bore 300 feet a month.

Never let a dealer sell you a substitute for an article you ask for. He is working for his own profit and not yours. Get what you ask for.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON AND YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

THE BOY A NOBLEM.

The International Sunday School Lesson for December 15 is "The Boy Samuel." 1 Samuel 3:1-21.

By William T. Ellis.

The juvenile court has become part of the equipment of every progressive city. The fundamental reason for this [illegible] of saving society's boys. The growth of the boys' club idea has the same significance. The boy problem has created a mass of modern literature, ranging all the way from pernicious comics like President G. Stanley Hall's "Adolescence" to the modest volumes I hope nonchalants in this field. Another [illegible] goes deep into the [illegible] upon the [illegible] Old Testament chronicle of the boy Samuel.

No two boys are alike. Sunkets' [illegible] them, which shape their destinies, and thus in fact mould a nation; but also because it is one of the most delightful days in the inspired collection of great tales. This story of Samuel is [illegible] with living. There is little or [illegible] between a boy of 3,000 years ago and a boy of today. Like the old-time prophet who [illegible] the Angelus ring, what was good for Samuel in Shiloh would fit boys in the western world which was undreamed of in his day.

A Mother's Dreams

Back of the story is the humble home of Hannah, the pious mother, the favored wife of his father. For [illegible] Hannah [illegible] son [illegible] Hannah [illegible] child [illegible] other wife [illegible] for [illegible] to her torment [illegible] possible [illegible] whose [illegible] we wonder [illegible] upon one of the [illegible] pilgrim [illegible] Shiloh, Hannah vowed that if Jehovah would give her a son she would [illegible] child's service.

Ever in her dreams [illegible] boys, with its [illegible] dreams [illegible] lofty [illegible] shadowed [illegible] that [illegible] to herself [illegible] tireless [illegible] article [illegible]. But understanding [illegible] offer [illegible] of a noble mother [illegible] the desire that her son may be a good man. With the deep instinct of a maternal heart she perceives that other successes are vain apart from true character. It used to be the common praise of the women of Christendom that their boys might enter the gospel ministry, perhaps that this has gone out of fashion is one reason why there is such a dearth of candidates for the sacred calling. Hannah, in not being ambitious as she brought her gift only to the tabernacle to offer him in the service of Jehovah. But year thereafter no mother carried to the boy little robes into which she wrought such love and solicitude as on this occasion.

The Boy in Church

[illegible] for [illegible] a boy who [illegible] his life [illegible] and about a church. Perhaps that is [illegible] the first day attendance of [illegible] Samuel was by no means a goody-goody boy, a milksop or a molly-coddle. That type is rightly sneered at today. This solemn power may be one [illegible] sweeping. There is a spirit of revolution against church-going for children, manifested today and there is none of the large courts of the [illegible]

A Frank writer [illegible] said about religious [illegible] the great value of regular church attendance in the life of a boy. Not [illegible] church [illegible] sure [illegible] he [illegible] Christian Endeavor [illegible] [illegible] talk [illegible] place of the regular Sunday service. Youth needs [illegible] under the sharp [illegible] power of the big idea represented by the world's [illegible] for worship. Even when [illegible] [illegible] there is an [illegible] that promotes reverence and [illegible] in the [illegible] sentation of the lofty duties of the pulpit. Plastic boyhood responds to the cathedral atmosphere, and to the sense of the eternal sublimities which can be gained only in church. Samuel's growth can be traced directly back to his boyhood environment.

"The Thoughts of Youth"

The imagination loves to dwell upon the picture of this little Hebrew lad, [illegible] central place of worship. He was a prop and comfort to old Eli the high priest whose own sons had fallen [illegible] What were Samuel's broodings upon the glory and mystery of that presence which had been Israel's guide and protector throughout its romantic history.

A boy will [illegible]
And the [illegible]
[illegible] thought.

The purposes which so profoundly affect character and destiny are [illegible] formed in early youth.

One night Samuel heard a voice calling him. He thought it was Eli's voice. It is natural to put the best interpretation upon the higher influences of life. A person seldom discerns the real meaning of the greatest events in his heart history. What happens to us often works out the mightiest events in the world's history. One day when Sankey and Moody were in England Sankey put his hand upon the head of a little girl's boy and expressed the wish that some day he might preach the gospel. That boy became Gipsy Smith, England's greatest evangelist. His preaching turned to [illegible] Dr. W. J. Dawson, a well known [illegible] are [illegible] among the clergy. Dr. Dawson's sermon [illegible] pastor [illegible] fessor [illegible] Hyde Jr. whose addresses among educated young men have been a feature of contemporaneous American life. [illegible] has also the [illegible] of Dr. Dawson and Dr. Geiss. Smith. A man can [illegible] where the streams will [illegible] that have their springs in the heart [illegible] be.

A Here-Am I Character

In modern [illegible] Samuel would be called a boy on the job. He was a little-minute man. No suggestion of [illegible] he [illegible] was he at the first [illegible] moment he was ready with a "Here am I." as he hurried to Eli's side.

Old Eli, who despite his weakness as a parent is a rather majestic figure, realized that the voice to which Samuel attributed a human origin was really the voice of God. It must have been a bitter pang for the old priest to see that he had been passed by when Jehovah wished to make a revelation; but he cared for the Lord [illegible] that he cares for himself. In a pathetic old figure there is not a spark of [illegible] jealousy. In the great crisis of his life he failed not. Bravely he heard the doom of his house, because "Thou honorest thy son above me." On him fell heavily the suffering which comes to every parent who has failed in his duty by his sons.

Instructed by Eli, Samuel replied when again he heard the voice, "Speak Lord for thy servant heareth." An answer which represents the attitude of highest wisdom. Whoever listens to what God has to say is sure of the highest education. Then was imparted to Samuel the news of the impending doom of Eli's house. It was a bitter message for the lad to have to hear and carry. His manner of receiving it was great. After pondering its meaning through the night he went about the humdrum duty of sport of the days and fulfilling his routine tasks. Happy is he who knows how to hold fast to commonplace routine duty even amid the [illegible] of life. When bidden to do so Samuel told brave old Eli every whit that the Lord had spoken to him.

A Great Man's Beginning

Out of such boyhood experiences emerged Israel's prophet, judge and king maker. Somewhere that day at the [illegible] lads who will be tomorrow's great men. They are "only boys" now, while are their elders who look upon them in the light of what they will become. Every boy has an opportunity. Many a noble man's greatest work has been his touch upon the life of some boy. Woman's greatest [illegible] is chiefly when through her supreme power over her boys.

A thoughtful [illegible] pastor [illegible] even with [illegible] efforts to abolish the use of cigarettes by boys and to remove from before them the temptation to strong drink. He is sure to see a more resolute war upon the even greater evils of impurity, fostering pictures, literature and theaters of society today. But in these things [illegible] failing to do its duty by [illegible] For the boy [illegible] up the man problem, in its stage of greatest possibility.
